Our Mission: We are sincerely dedicated to the long-term conservation of exotic animals through propagation and public education.

Our long-term efforts to expand the population of rare and endangered species have resulted in successful breeding of several different species of protected animals.

Beginning in 2008, we opened the gates for School Tours of our facility. This half-day excursion is designed to educate children of any grade level about pivotal issues concerning the support and welfare of animals everywhere. The education program is divided into four different areas of emphasis.

1. The Animal Tour is a guided tour. Topics covered include learning to recognize animals at each exhibit, adaptations for survival and general information along with interesting facts about each species. Animal photography is encouraged.
2. Animal care focuses on the everyday activities associated with caring for animals and concentrates on feeding habits and veterinary care. Feeding habits cover the diet and nutrition for the animals both in captivity and in their natural habitat. Veterinary care features common animal pests and parasites, and preventative measures and treatments for controlling them.
3. Conservation covers man's impact on his environment and demonstrates the need for the protection of natural habitats required for the survival of wild animals.
4. Literature provided at the conclusion of the tour contains handouts with profiles of the animals exhibited, and many of the facts covered in their husbandry, conservation demonstrations and lecture. The literature is crafted to generate a lasting impression of the visit and underscore the importance of animal conservation and habitat protection.
